

Lyndsey Haskell

Freelance Community Photographer

Brighton based photographer specialising in visual communications and storytelling for charities and community groups.

Tell the stories behind your people and your organisation, raise your profile and engage with your audience through honest, authentic and colourful pictures.

Use photos for your:

- Website & other online media
- Annual reports & publications
- Funding bids
- Email newsletters
- Leaflets, posters & other marketing materials
- Local press

Show your donors, trustees and supporters the impact of your work, helping them better connect with you and understand the benefit of their funding and input.

Community Photography

Images to promote the work of your organisation and show people what you do

Compelling photos can showcase the fantastic work you're doing, helping you to get your message across and reach interested parties prompting them to find out more.

Maintaining a stock of up-to-date pictures for your asset library means you always have a strong image to use whatever your requirement and deadline.

Photos can be used for

- Your website
- Blog posts
- Annual reports
- Funding bids
- Publicity campaigns
- Leaflets & other marketing materials
- Local and national press articles

Images can be cropped and resized to your specifications and can be supplied in print-ready formats to be used in your own publications and for external press at short notice.

I can provide the relevant media release forms and collect permissions from participants.

Case Studies & Storytelling

Impactful portraits and the stories that go with them

Using natural light and a digital SLR camera, I make people from all sorts of backgrounds feel at ease in front of the lens.

As well as offering high quality photographs, I can also interview and collect first person case studies.

‘The Moulsecomb Bangladeshi Women’s Group is based at St George’s Hall in East Brighton and aims to promote the well-being of female Bangladeshi residents living in the city. Volunteer Mish has been involved since 2006 and currently holds the role of secretary. Mish says “I’m a doer, I like to get things done so a big part of my role involves organising trips and funding and liaison between the group and other non-Bengali speaking organisations”.’

Case study extract from TDC 2016 Calendar

With a sensitive approach to interviewees and experience of working with disadvantaged and underrepresented groups, I can help people tell their stories in their own words.

Portraits can be taken at a location of your choice or at my central Brighton studio.

Community Events

A collection of photos showing a special event, workshop or fair

Events photos showing communities coming together to enhance the lives of those connected with them.

Able to work to a shot list compiled by you, as well as coming up with my own ideas for pictures , I will work with you and your team to create a collection of photos to demonstrate your work.

I can be flexible on timings and am available to work at weekends and in the evenings.

TDC Calendar

‘It’s been so useful having Lyndsey as a dedicated person to take photos and write case studies for us. It’s often hard for our staff to find the time or have the confidence or skills to do this in the course of their daily work.’

Linda Saltwell, Chief Executive , TDC

‘Lyndsey is a talented photographer with an eye for great composition. Emmaus Brighton & Hove is an organisation that is all about the people and Lyndsey’s style managed to capture and illustrate how amazing and individual we all are.’

Joel Lewis, Business Manager at Emmaus Brighton & Hove

‘Lyndsey puts her heart and soul into the role, attending events to find out first-hand the stories that our funding has helped create.’

Warren Carter, Director, East Brighton Trust

‘Thank you for taking such beautiful photos of our Summer Fair... They are wonderful! Thank you so much for all the effort and care that went into this project. You got along so well with everyone and really captured the spirit of the event’.

Barbara Usherwood, Friends of Summerhill Association

‘Lyndsey is our first choice to work with as she has such a great understanding of the aims and objectives of the charity sector.’

Lyndsay Macadam, Project Manager, TDC
