Lyndsey Haskell Reference

Lyndsey has been helping the Bevy with its marketing since the start of this year and prior to that had been regularly photographing our events. She has been an absolute revelation! Always willing to go the extra mile Lyndsey has shown that she is dedicated with a very creative approach. She is a self-starter and works quickly and efficiently. She has shown that she can produce high-quality content across a wide range of media (including photographs, written blogs and graphic design among many others).

She has led on managing the Bevy's social media presence and this has produced very positive results. One clear example of the difference she can make was the response to the fabulous photos that Lyndsey took when we had a "virtual" Royal visit via Zoom from HRH The Duchess of Cornwall in November of this year. These pictures were shared widely and have appeared in the national press, including the Daily Mail and Daily Express, as well as on the official Clarence House twitter and Instagram accounts, and the feedback has been overwhelmingly positive.
